Gospel Meditation

April 21, 2024
4th Sunday of Easter

Recently I was with my little dog Libby at a retreat center in the Arizona desert. I sat in a chair near a ravine filled with shrubs. Unbeknownst to me, Libby wandered down there and disappeared. Suddenly an animal's wild shriek erupted from the area. Without thinking, I bolted down into the ravine fully expecting to see coyotes, javelinas, or rattlesnakes. I didn't care. I desperately wanted to get Libby out of there, without any self-regard. Before I could face whatever danger lay hidden, my dog blissfully trotted out from an entirely different area, utterly unaware that I had (quite heroically) just placed my life on the line.

When the adrenaline wore off, I thought to myself: how far would I have been willing to go to save her? I don't know. But I do know, if I had literally died, my friends and family would have certainly thought me insane for dying for a dog. No offense, Libby.

How passionately Jesus wants us to know him and his willingness to die for us! This week he says, "I know my own and my own know me," and "I lay down my life for the sheep." Here we encounter an insanely excessive love for us. Christianity is a relationship and not simply a religion or ethical code. In Jesus, God rescues and saves us. He laid down his life for you and me — and he has taken it up again. So often we are like Libby — blissfully ignorant of the reality of both our spiritual danger and his saving love. This Easter season, the risen Jesus calls us to be more conscious than ever before about his love. He never ceases to lay down his life for us.

Series 2: The Mass

Praying the Mass with the Elementary Child

In the Eucharistic Liturgy we visibly see the great gift from God to man and our response in offering Jesus, and ourselves through him, back to God. Let us become attuned to this great exchange!

Participation in the Mass consists, most essentially, in uniting our hearts and minds to the events taking place before and around us. Sit up front with your children so they might better see what is taking place and incorporate some of the following ideas to engage your school-age children in praying on the Great Mystery of the Holy Mass.

Idea #4

How do you see all of creation as part of this exchange between earth and heaven, heaven and earth?

How are minerals, plants, animals, and humans part of this worship of God?

Look at all the things present for worship.

What do you see?

Where do they come from?

JULIE MCAFFEE

on being received into full communion with the Catholic Church

Easter Vigil March 30th, 2024

Julie McAfee, 52 years old, chose to prioritize yoga over going to Mass with her family for years, and even then, only attended infrequently. A few years ago, however, a profound shift occurred within her during the liturgy. It was as though God gently whispered into her heart, indicating that the time had come for her spiritual awakening. From that moment on, she found herself frequently moved to tears during mass, feeling the presence of Jesus deeply within her. This transformation not only led her family on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem and Bethlehem in 2023, but also right into the RCIA program at St. Gabriel, where her soul was indelibly marked at the Easter Vigil. She chose Mary as her Confirmation saint, because after leaving RCIA class one night, she smelled roses.

St. Gabriel the Archangel Catholic Parish

Invites You

From Heartbroken to Healed... All Because of the Eucharist

I walked into my Steubenville conference this year a broken mess. I had just been broken up with by a guy who decided to completely shut me out of his life. My dad had recently lost his job. A majority of my friends had left me to join the party scene. And with all the changes college was about to bring right around the corner, my life seemed to be crumbling around me.

Throughout high school, I thought I had the whole faith thing all figured out. I would go to daily Mass, had a holy hour of adoration, and led on my Church's discipleship team. I would hear talks about having your identity in Christ so much so that nothing can shake you, and I thought to myself "yep that's me."

I thought "I'm joyful and I love God so that's where it's coming from." But it wasn't.

The beginning of my summer was like God had put me in the middle of a hurricane, and I was completely knocked down by the weight of it all. With this feeling of loneliness, I began to turn to other people and things to give me that worth that I was so desperately seeking. I realized through this that my foundation was not truly on Christ. I had been putting my worth and finding my joy in the love and affirmation others gave me. The breakup had left me empty and broken because I was not finding satisfaction in Christ alone. This was where I was when I walked into my Steubenville conference. I was a broken mess, praying and praying that Christ would help me. During adoration, I had the opportunity to gaze at the one who truly loves me and even thought me worthy enough to die for. These were things I knew because I was taught that Jesus loves me, but I started to actually feel it during adoration that night.

A strong desire for the Eucharist suddenly came over me. I couldn't get the image out of my head of myself receiving the Eucharist. Then it occurred to me that God was answering my prayers through that. He was giving me a deep desire for Himself. He was giving my heart direction and it was pointing straight to Him, Jesus Christ our Lord and Savior.

I stretched out my hands and sang as loud as I ever had because I was completely overflowing with a joy I had never felt before: the true joy of Christ filling all of my cracks and healing all of my hurt. Christ already fought for you on the cross and will continue to fight for your heart every single day. People will fail you and I realized this, but God never will. I learned to not be afraid to trust God with my whole heart because He will never abandon me. The world will tell you how to find satisfaction – being liked by a guy, getting plenty of likes on social media, having a lot of money – but it will all ultimately leave you empty.

By keeping my eyes fixed on eternity, I found true and unending love and joy. God puts us through hardships so that He can groom us to go out and do His will. By taking away everything I could reach for, I had no other choice but to lean completely on Him. The storm I was put through, the hurt I dealt with, all the lessons I learned – this was God's plan the whole time. This struggle put my feet on the foundation of Christ so my faith could be built up in a stronger and more authentic way.

Christ fulfilled me so much more at Steubenville because I was so broken. I now desire to share Jesus' name to an even greater extent because my brokenness revealed to me the true satisfaction that can be found in Christ. My brokenness showed me that I have nothing that will remain in my life but the love of Jesus Christ. There is joy in the shadows of heartbreak and struggle because there is joy in Christ. Jesus was broken to give us hope in our brokenness.

I still am a broken mess, but with my identity in Christ, He can shine through every crack in my soul and I will glorify His name forever because of that.
