Gospel Meditation

August 25, 2024
21st Sunday in Ordinary Time

The famous Russian novelist Fyodor Dostoyevsky said, "Love in action is a harsh and dreadful thing."

In the Gospel reading this week, Jesus does something harsh and dreadful — he watches his own disciples abandon him. What could possibly be loving about that?

Well, we notice the context is Jesus' teaching about eating and drinking his body and blood. His followers hear this and say, "This teaching is difficult; who can accept it?" (John 6:60). We shouldn't imagine we'd do anything different, because not even the ones who stay, like Peter, seem to understand what Jesus is saying. Then we hear this devastating line, "Because of this many of his disciples turned back and no longer went about with him" (John 6:66). Besides the night of the Last Supper, only now do Jesus' disciples abandon him. And, painfully, Jesus just lets them go.

The best way to make sense out of this is love. Jesus is God's love in action. He wants to become one with those whom He loves. He wants to love them as His own body. Yes, the oneness manifested in the Eucharist sounds harsh and dreadful because it is rooted in love which is willing to risk abandonment and separation to attain its goal: to be one body with the beloved. It is both terrifying and wonderful that Jesus will risk losing us in order to be one with us. Our response? Lord, we cannot grasp a love so great, but please help us never to abandon it, either.

Knights of Columbus®

"Father McGivney, at the end of the 19th century, foresaw the importance of a united and informed laity for the progress of the Gospel in the new world. Almost a century before the Second Vatican Council, he sought to enable Catholic laymen to live up to their baptismal vocation "to seek the kingdom of God by engaging in temporal affairs and ordering them according to the divine plan" (Lumen Gentium, 31). In today's increasingly secularized culture, which at times rejects and even tries to ridicule religious belief and fundamental norms of the moral law, the Knights of Columbus can play a significant role in teaching and embodying the religious and civic ideals capable of shaping a future of hope and promise for coming generations. ### THE MINISTRY OF ACOLYTE

*"There are different ways of serving, but the same Lord is served."
-Cor 12:5*

The role of the ministry of acolytes in the Church is sacred; at the same time, it helps to facilitate worship. Etymologically, the term "acolyte" originates from the Greek word akoluthos, meaning "server," "companion" or "follower." Acolytes assist the deacon or priest at the altar. Their ministry therefore anchors on service to the Church and the people of God.

The ministry of acolytes is classified within the minor order. It forms part of the canonical requirements: "Before anyone is promoted to the office of a permanent or transitional diaconate, he is required to have received the ministries of lector and acolyte and to have exercised them for a suitable period" (Canon 1035). The seminarian exercises the office of lector for a while, before being promoted to the highest rank of the minor order, which is the acolyte. This promotion is a stepping stone in the formation of the seminarians to the Catholic priesthood. Moreover, vocation to the priesthood is a call to service. Formation of seminarians from the start to the end gears toward service to God and humanity. The Church strives to inculcate in the seminarian at the different levels of formation the sense of service.

The role of the acolytes in a liturgical celebration is indispensable, hence they serve as ministers of the altar and render invaluable help to the deacon and the priest. Acolytes prepare wine and water for the sacrifice of the Mass. If Communion is given under both kinds, when no deacon is present, the acolyte administers the chalice to the communicants or holds the chalice if Communion is given by intinction. They also distribute Holy Communion outside of Mass and help the deacon and priest purify the vessels used to distribute it. They may also administer communion to the sick or homebound. The duty of the acolytes flows from the "baptismal priesthood" and "service to the community." Thus the two pillars represent the foundation of the institution of the ministries (Francis, Apostolic Exhortation Querida Amazonia, n, 103). The General Instructions of the Roman Missal confirms this fact, "In the absence of an instituted acolyte, lay ministers may be deputed to serve at the altar and assist the priest and the deacon; they may carry the cross, the candles, the thurible, the bread, the wine, and the water, and they may also be deputed to distribute Holy Communion as extraordinary ministers" (100).

St. Gabriel the Archangel is blessed with Mass Captains, Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion (EM), and Altar Servers, who serve as acolytes when they prepare for Holy Mass and serve from the procession up to the recession. Faith formation becomes an integral component of an acolyte's experience as he becomes proficient in assimilating liturgical practices and gaining insights into the significance of rituals and symbols used in worship. An acolyte's formation often includes understanding the meaning behind the Eucharist, the significance of the liturgical calendar, and the role of the Church in the world. Throughout this development, an acolyte develops a deeper appreciation of his faith, thus nourishing his vocation to the priesthood and religious life.

Moreover, serving as an acolyte instills essential values such as discipline, respect, and teamwork. Acolytes learn to work together with clergy and other members of the ministry team, fostering a sense of community and collaboration. The experience of serving in this capacity can be empowering, to the point of encouraging people to take on leadership roles in the Church and beyond.

Finally, the ministry of acolyte plays a vital role in the life of the Church. The acolyte's responsibilities, though seemingly minor, are essential in setting the tone for reverence, and contributing to the overall worship experience. The acolytes assist the clergy during worship to create a conducive atmosphere that ensures harmony and effectivity in service, thereby facilitating the clergy's focus on the spiritual dimension of worship. Their active participation in worship enriches their own spiritual lives and contributes to the growth of the Church. Thus, as acolytes light the candles and carry the cross, they carry forward the light of faith with the rare challenge-to be a beacon of light in a darkened world.

The question then arises: Will you take up this challenge ... to respond to the call of service-to consider accepting the role of Mass Captain, EM, and/or Altar Servers for the growth of the community, and in so doing, to grow deeper into intimacy with Christ.

Welcome to the Team

Mrs. Ham

I am honored to join the staff at Annunciation Catholic School. I also am a member of St. Gabriel Parish. As a lifelong Catholic I believe that God has had a plan for my life and Divine Providence brought me and my husband to this amazing community in Cave Creek, Arizona on June 1, 2023.

I was born and raised in Indianapolis, Indiana and visited my hometown in July to attend the Eucharistic Congress. I graduated from Cathedral High School (yes, the same school as Cole Hocker, the Olympic Gold Medalist in the 1500 meter race)! I attended Purdue University and received a Bachelor of Science in Speech Pathology and Audiology.

My husband Greg and I celebrated our 39th anniversary this month. We moved from Indy to Colorado with our two oldest daughters in 1998. We were blessed to have another daughter who is a native of Colorado.

I returned to school and earned a Masters in Elementary Education and worked for 18 years in a public Charter School in Denver, before retiring in May of 2023.

I am grateful to Dr. Pristash and the amazing group of educators who have welcomed me to this wonderful school as a Reading Resource teacher this year! I am passionate about education and your children!
