November 3rd, 2024
31st Sunday in Ordinary Time

Americans have long been fascinated with public debates. Farmers stood in muddy fields for hours to hear Lincoln and Douglas dispute each other in the 1860 presidential run-up. The televised debate between Kennedy and Nixon in 1960 fascinated the nation. These days, cable news outlets and social media parse every word spoken by candidates. We still love seeing public, rational disputes in the service of our nation.

In his day, Jesus also captured attention as a public debater. Mark tells us, "And one of the scribes came up and heard them disputing with one another, and seeing that he answered them well, asked him, 'Which commandment is the first of all?'" Jesus' brief but all-encompassing response is the double command to love God and neighbor. Notice that he includes the importance of loving God with "all your mind." Loving God is not simply a question of affection, loyalty, good deeds, and religious dedication. It demands honest and intense intellectual engagement — just like an accomplished debater.

How do we do this practically? One simple way is by embracing ourselves as life-long learners. Setting aside time for reading, book studies, online classes, and, perhaps most difficult, engaging in open, honest, and curious conversation with those who think differently from us. These are all great ways to love God with our minds. Our country and our Church depend greatly on souls who love God in this way with their minds. Let's commit to loving God with all our minds in tireless pursuit of truth.

— Father John Muir

THE SOCIETY OF ST. VINCENT DE PAUL FEED. CLOTHE. HOUSE. HEAL

*A Home Visit
The Heart of our Vocation*

One of our volunteers recently visited a neighbor who had been living through our hot Arizona summer with no air conditioning. She learned that APS cut him off because of old, inadequate and dangerous wiring. She was able to get his house rewired; a total cost of over $8,000. He would never have been able to pay for this on his own. This visit was one of many that make a huge impact in the lives of our own neighbors. In this case, it could have been detrimental to his health, with several weeks of dangerously high temperatures.

We are grateful for our generous donors who provide the funds that allow us to serve in these crisis situations.

MEMBERS OF CONSECRATED LIFE: COMMUNITY LIFE

"And all who believed were together and had all things in common." Acts 2:44

For the past five weeks, the focus of our discussion has been on the religious life, with a special emphasis on the evangelical counsels (chastity, poverty, and obedience), which is the hallmark of the religious life. The final segment considers the religious community. Generally speaking, the religious community is where the religious live and carry out their mission under the leadership of a superior. The religious community is an integral aspect of the religious life that plays a pivotal role in shaping the spiritual growth, emotional well-being, and overall experience of all the religious. Given the fact that every congregation or institute has rules and constitutions, its superior carries the responsibility of leading the affairs of the community to ensure there is order and decorum.

St. Pope John Paul II in his popular Apostolic Exhortation "Vita Consecrata" traced the history of the religious community back to the time of Christ when Jesus initiated formation of the early community of believers. He called the twelve and trained them to live, according to his example, for the Father and for the mission which He had received (cf. Mk 3:13-15). Jesus inaugurated the new family which, throughout the centuries, would include all those ready to "do the will of God" (cf. Mk 3:32-35). After the Ascension, the outpouring of the gift of the Holy Spirit formed the new fraternal community, and the apostles gathered to praise God and have a concrete experience of communion (cf. Acts 2:42-47; 4:32-35). The religious life was thus started by Jesus during his earthly ministry. The focal point of the community life centers on the Sermon of the Mount (Beatitudes).

Indeed, the Most Holy Trinity is the perfect example of the religious community. Three persons exist in one God, enjoying unity, love, and harmony without tension or friction. Undeniably, the religious community draws strength from the unity of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit as the foundation that shapes the relationship among its members. Despite the multicultural diversity found among the members within each religious community, each religious strives to live in mutual love, understanding, and tolerance with other members of the community. Each one constantly strives to promote fraternity, koinonia (fellowship), diaconia (service), and living in solidarity with other members of the community.

During the previous lessons, serious consideration was given to the evangelical counsels: chastity, poverty, and obedience. These vows are supposed to be concretely lived out in the day-to-day activities of the religious life within and outside the community. They stand as beacons of light in a darkened world. Therefore, the religious strives to be the light of the world and the salt that gives flavor when interacting with others, illuminating a certain way of life and being that stands out as a bold witness to the Gospel by what they do and say.

The demands of religious life and community living are enormous as each member strives to live and love like Jesus so as to be able to sanctify the people around them and witness to them. Therefore, the religious needs to depend totally on the support of the Trinity, and depend totally on the Father who calls them into the religious life. The Holy Spirit sanctifies and brings fruitfulness to the religious life. Jesus, the Second Person of the Trinity, is the model of the religious, the spouse they are consecrated to. Through Jesus, religious life derives its identity.

Indeed, the religious cannot survive the storms of life without a profound life of prayer. Prayer plays a crucial role in the daily life of religious communities. The early community of believers constantly gathered together for prayers and the breaking of the bread. Through these collective activities, the early Christians were able to survive the bitter persecution that confronted the early Church and to experience a phenomenal growth in their spiritual life. Certainly, prayer is significant in sustaining the life of the religious. Moreover, the religious set a high priority for their life of prayer, be it personal prayer, community prayer, or the liturgy of the hours (Divine Office). It cannot be overemphasized that prayer serves as the foundation for one's spiritual growth and the fuel that helps one to overcome prevailing challenges in life. Through this profound prayer life, the religious derives solace, strength, and hope in times of adversity.

In the same vein, the Eucharist holds a central and vital place in the life of the religious community. It is the source and summit of Christian life, and through the daily reception of the Holy Eucharist, believers receive spiritual nourishment, and experience a profound sense of unity and belonging. The spirituality of the religious centers on the Eucharist. This is the reason Christ's presence is permanently installed in the chapel. His abiding presence in the religious community makes a whole lot of difference. As a final note, there is still so much to be talked about the religious life. However, time is of the essence. This topic is inexhaustible. Although religious life is experiencing a serious decline in terms of vocation, we continue to pray to the Lord of the harvest to send more laborers into His vineyard. Our duty is to pray and remain hopeful. For God's ways are not ours (Isaiah 55:6-8).

Accreditation Update November 2024

Annunciation has been preparing for our second accreditation visit for a year and a half. The process culminates with an onsite visit by a Visiting Committee of seven educators. The Visiting Committee has received copies of the Self-Study and Educational Improvement Plan as well as other information about the school. During the next month they will read our documents and plan for the 3-day visit, November 13-15.

On November 13, we will introduce the Visiting Committee to the student body at a school Mass, after which they will attend the monthly Catholic Identity Committee meeting. Throughout the first day, they will observe in classrooms, at lunch and recess, and at drop-off and pick-up. They will interview students, faculty, staff, the principal and our pastor. They will look at evidence to support the findings in our Self-Study. Some evidence will be "live" while other evidence is physical or digital evidence that the faculty and staff have been collecting and organizing for the past year. In the evening, the Committee will meet with the Advisory Council.

On Thursday, November 14, the Committee will continue with classroom visits and evidence review as they begin writing the Report of Findings. Friday morning, they will finalize the Report of Findings and complete their paperwork. At 1:00 on Friday afternoon the Committee will meet with the school staff and share some of the findings.
